

Dr. Alanka P. Brown is the Associate Vice President and Dean of Academic Affairs at Frederick Community College in Frederick, Maryland. She has worked in the field of higher education for over 12 years where she has served in both teaching and administrative positions. Dr. Brown has expertise in transformational leadership and the design and implementation of student achievement systems. She also has a strong background in the facilitation of collective impact systems that establish and leverage collective work amongst the six key sectors of the community to further strengthen connections between colleges and communities.

Dr. Brown is a sought-after speaker on topics of college and career readiness, postsecondary attainment, workforce connections, and alternative pedagogical strategies. She has presented at numerous state, local, and national conferences and serves as an expert panelist on national foundation panels on topics that address higher education reform and student success; with emphasis on developmental education redesign and guided pathways.

Prior to joining Frederick Community College, Dr. Brown was a district administrator at Miami Dade College in Miami, Florida where she was responsible for leading the college in implementing large-scale innovative initiatives to improve student success and completion. Dr. Brown's work was done in partnership with national educational foundations and nonprofit organizations such as the Gates Foundation, the Lumina Foundation, the Carnegie Foundation, Complete College America, Achieving the Dream, the Aspen Institute, and Jobs for the Future. Dr. Brown has also served in academic leadership roles at other institutions in Florida and New York.

Dr. Brown holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Political Science from Florida A&M University, a Master of Arts in International Affairs/International Political Economy from Florida State University, a Master of Public Administration degree from the Nova Southeastern University Huizenga College of Business, and a Doctor of Education degree in Higher Education Administration from the Nova Southeastern University Fischler School of Education. She also holds a graduate certificate in Education Law & Policy from the Nova Southeastern University Shepard Board Law Center, and a second graduate certificate in Project Leadership from Cornell University's College of Engineering.