This fall, venture into an original adaptation of Pirandello’s classic. The play poses the question: What if an author abandoned his characters before the play was finished? What happens if the unfinished characters barge into a rehearsal and demand that their stories be told?

Local playwright, director, and MCCCD instructor Laurelann Porter’s new translation highlights the clash between deeply disturbing tragedy and irreverent comedy.